NANKING, China, Sept. 24.—(INS)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, China's military dictator, criticized the attitude of the United States government toward the Sino-Japanese conflict today and pleaded for support from nations which signed the nine-power pact.

Addressing foreign correspondents in China's bomb-scarred capital, Chiang said he did not believe the present attitude of the American government represents the real sentiment of the American people toward the Far Eastern war.

The generalissimo stated, however, that he was convinced the American people and government would always uphold justice, law and order and would give China support and sympathy in its struggle against "Japanese aggression."

Chiang appeared fit and cheerful as he talked, despite the fact the burden of directing China's defense against Japanese troops and raiding war planes rests upon his shoulders.

His American-educated wife, who herself is chief of the Chinese air force, sat beside him and acted as interpreter.

Commenting directly upon the stand of the United States toward the war, Chiang contended that China is not only fighting for her own existence, but to uphold the principles of the

TWO TOWNS MAY ACCEPT VOCATIONAL COURSES

Plans Are Discussed by Joint School Board of Sellersville and Perkasie

CLASSES IN THE EVENING

PERKASIE, Sept. 24.—Residents of Sellersville and this borough have been offered free vocational training for young and old. The offer was made at a meeting of the joint school board of the two towns.

W. E. Brunton, of the Department of Public Instruction, offered this fine opportunity after he had made an extensive survey of industries in the two boroughs Monday.

Mr. Brunton said he was amazed to find such an efficient organization as the United States Gauge plant located in Sellersville. He spent three hours inspecting that factory and the methods it employs.

If the school is started, it will be conducted at night in the high school building, being open to all persons who wish to further their education. Its special purpose, it has been explained, is to fit men and women to better their ability to do their life work. Mr. Brunton said that if a plumber or carpenter should lose his job because his knowledge is lacking in some of the details of his work, the vocational school will furnish a special instructor to give him that knowledge.

The only expense to the borough will be for electric lights and heat. Last year the U. S. Gauge plant conducted such a night school for its employees only at considerable expense.

Mathematics, chemistry, physics, blue-printing and any other courses that the students desire will be taught. In order that the school may start at least 12 students must signify their desire to enroll. The joint board anticipates the enrollment of more than 100 persons to start.

Another aim of the State Department, according to Mr. Brunton, is to put the Sell-Perk manual training shop and home economics classes on a strictly vocational training basis. This is to fit graduates to the kind of work they are most likely to take up after they leave school. If the school classes meet the strictest requirements of the State Department, it will mean increased appropriation from the State and thus will supply the means for better salaried teachers in those departments.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Mr. Lewis' Visit

ILLUMINATING FACTS WERE OBTAINED BY HIS IMPLICATIONS.

THE CHIEF of these is that the "resumption of relations" between the President and the C. I. O. leader justifies the contention of those who held that while they may—and do—personally dislike each other, they are much too dependent in other ways, too closely linked, with too many mutual interests, for either to afford a genuine break. It also lends support to the contention that Mr. Lewis calculatingly believes that he will get more consideration from the White House if, instead of vying with his rival, Mr. Green, in unctuous adulation of the President, when the situation warrants he should assert himself with emphasis, let it be known that he is no Presidential puppet to be patronizingly patted or politely pushed around.

IT WILL HAVE to be conceded that if this was Mr. Lewis' theory—and some of his closest friends vouch for it—he certainly has put it into operation with considerable success. For example, upon two occasions within the past year, he has used language in referring to Mr. Roosevelt which everyone admitted was strong, and a good many thought insulting. Once he bluntly reminded the President of the financial contribution of the C. I. O. to his campaign, asserted that he had been elected by the labor vote and in effect declared that labor now expected him to deliver the goods.

AND QUITE recently, in his "supped at labor's table and sheltered in labor's house" speech, he practically accused the President of ingratitude and disloyalty. That was the way those remarks were interpreted by the press of the country and by the politicians. Upon each occasion Mr. Lewis' words had followed comment by Mr. Roosevelt on the strike situation, mild to the point of inanity and impartial to a degree. Twice Mr. Lewis has publicly and roughly rebuked Mr. Roosevelt for attempted impartiality, let him know in no uncertain

MISSIONARIES PREPARE TO SAIL FOR AFRICA

Rev. and Mrs. Wm. C. Boyer Complete Furlough; Have Been in Emilie

CONTACT 10,000 PEOPLE

EMILIE, Sept. 24.—Two missionaries to the Belgian Congo of Africa, the Rev. and Mrs. William C. Boyer, who for the past two years have been in the United States on furlough, will leave tomorrow for New York, from whence they will embark on Thursday next to resume their missionary duties, taking the light of the Gospel to the dark continent.

The two, each of whom served as missionaries to Africa before their marriage, commenced their services to the African tribes in 1919. Mrs. Boyer was a graduate nurse, leaving her home in England for the mission field. It was in Congo that the two met, and after having served their first term in the mission field, they were married in England.

The Rev. and Mrs. Boyer, who have maintained their residence here during the past two years during furlough, will sail on the S. S. "Henri Jaspard," of the Belgian line, from pier 30, Brooklyn, N. Y., next Thursday at five p. m. Their address will be Boma, Congo Belge, West Africa.

"We have a two-day journey through the jungle after we disembark in Africa. Our station is near Boma, the old capital," stated the missionaries as they prepared to leave this country. On the two-day journey into the interior, Mrs. Boyer travels by hammock, and the Rev. Boyer goes afoot. "There is quite a caravan when we travel in Congo," added Mrs. Boyer. "You see we have to actually carry everything that we take with us. That means we need several of the natives to aid with the baggage during the journey."

This will be the fourth term that the Rev. and Mrs. Boyer have served in Congo. There are four workers now at the station near Boma, and two will leave for furlough when the Boyers arrive. When they last left for the United States, Mrs. Boyer, who is qualified as a public school teacher, as well as being a graduate nurse, had 120 boys in school classes. There are also located at the station a preparatory school for Bible students, and a daily women's school.

The Rev. Boyer is missionary to approximately 10,000 people, being responsible for six centers in an area of 90 by 60 miles.

Mrs. Boyer, while in the Congo, is the Belgian state sanitary agent. "We have so much of the African sleeping sickness there," she stated in telling of her work. "Thirty per cent of the natives have it. The African sleeping sickness is caused by the direct bite of an infected tsetse fly. The ailment is in far worse form than the sleeping sickness we have here. Some cases become so severe, affecting the brain to such a degree, that the patients have to be chained in bed in the hospital. Many cases of leprosy are also being found in Congo." All types of ailments are discovered and treated at the dispensary over which Mrs. Boyer presides. The Rev. Boyer is also frequently called upon to extract teeth, he being sought out by any who suffer from tooth-ache.

Quarterly meetings are conducted at each of the six churches in the area, by the Rev. Boyer. The journeys between each center usually occupy the greater part of a day, with all traveling afoot, in company with natives.

During their two-year stay in the United States, the Rev. and Mrs. Boyer have travelled from Maine to Florida, telling of the need of the Gospel in Congo.

THREE NOW ON TRIAL AS RESULT OF RAID ON FARM AT EMILIE

Enforcement Officer is First Witness to Take Stand In the Case

DESCRIBES THE RAID

Three Attorneys Are Representing the Defendants as Case Opens to Jury

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 24.—The case growing out of a raid on a farm near Emilie was the center of interest at court here yesterday. The defendants include Michael Namet, Michael Namet, Jr., and William Truckess. A fourth defendant, Gustave Avella, is not being tried at this time. The case is on trial before Judge Boyer.

Attorneys trying the case include Howard I. James, Bristol; J. Leslie Kilcoyne, Bristol, and John L. DuBois, Doylestown.

Commonwealth is represented by Assistant District Attorney Edward G. Blester, who opened to the jury.

Enforcement Agent Robert K. Hollenbush, of the State Liquor Control Board, testified that he went to the Bristol township farm of Michael Namet, a mile from Emilie, on May 10, on a raid with other officers.

"When I arrived at the farm I saw two men working on a steam pump in front of a building," Hollenbush testified. "When the men saw me they ran into a swamp nearby. There was no one in the building or outside when I arrived there. The building was erected on the side of a hill. It contained a still and was located some distance from the Namet farm house."

The building housed a large still in operation, Hollenbush testified. Three vats containing fermenting mash were found inside. The witness said he found Michael Namet, Sr., seated in front of the building two hours after the raid. He said he first saw Namet's son driving back to the farm. Truckess was seen first in an auto repair shop four miles from the Namet farm, Hollenbush said.

The witness said that he was with another officer when the defendants were questioned, at the office of Justice of the Peace Krouse, Langhorne, on May 11, the day after the raid. The statements were signed.

Wojcieh Slota, Milford Square, charged with unlawful possession of liquor, went on trial before President Judge Hiram H. Keller.

M. R. Meyers, Liquor Control Board officer, on March 16, accompanied by three other officers, raided the defendant's farm and premises.

The officers found a pint bottle of moonshine and a gallon jug of colorless moonshine. They also found several hundred empty 100-pound sugar bags and empty five-gallon cans, one of which bore the odor of alcohol.

"Slota said he bought the sugar bags and didn't know anything about the moonshine."

Eva Cancer, secretary to Dr. Joseph Harrison, Bucks county's consulting chemist, testified she received the samples of alcohol in Philadelphia, where they were analyzed.

Edward Reese, chemist, who made the analysis, testified the small bottle contained moonshine alcohol with a 32.5 percentage.

The large bottle contained grain alcohol with a percentage of 92.97. It was colored with caramel.

Wojcieh Slota, the defendant, who has resided on the farm, north of Milford Square, in his testimony, revealed that four boarders lived in his house. Two lived there on a day shift and two at night.

"The gallon jug was in a closet in the hallway, which I never used. The boarders left on Sunday and I got raided on Tuesday. One of the boarders gave me a pint," said the defendant.

He amused the court and audience when he offered to take a drink out of the pint bottle in order to prove it was a mixture of liquor and coffee.

"This is no place to take a drink," said his counsel, Webster S. Achey, as one of the jury members practically collapsed from laughter.

Mrs. Katie Slota, wife of the defendant, described how the officers raided the house, including the cellar. "The boarders were there only two weeks. My husband bought the sugar bags."

THE FESTIVAL OF YOUTH

Football is a festival of youth. On these occasions, young manhood comes forth in all its pride of muscular power and alert wit, and shows what can be done by powerful bodies, trained muscles, and strategic organization. The players throw themselves into this somewhat rough game with defiance of all physical risks, so that it seems a little like a body of soldiers going out to capture a trench. The applauding crowds cheer it as an exhibition of gritty courage and physical and mental power.

The young feminine world expresses by its fervent cheers, the admiration which the sex feels for strength and power. The bright clothing of the young women, the cheerful music of the school and college bands, make a picture and a symphony of color and sound. Such a game becomes a supreme expression of American enthusiasm and hero worship.

The sober philosopher, digging into the world's wisdom in his library, wishes that all this energy and emotion could be translated into some more practical effort. "If they would only show the same eagerness in learning their lessons of truth and science, or in abolishing the evils that plague the country," he mournfully remarks, "what a noble state of society we should have!"

But we can't put the wisdom of 80 years into the heart of 20. If the young folks had all the sagacity of age, they would probably be satisfied to accept the world as it is, and let it wag on its weary way in the old rut.

Let us be glad that youth is so happy at its own football festival, and thankful that it is paying its adoration to real and honest achievement, instead of to the false pretenses and sickly vices to which youth is constantly tempted.

SCHOOL BY RADIO

That's a mighty interesting experiment that is being made in Chicago, where opening of the schools has been postponed owing to an epidemic scare. That experiment is in the nature of substitution of the radio for the school house.

The teacher is present but invisible. The newspapers co-operate in giving pre-outlines of topics. It all seems to be a very well ordered effort to keep the stream of education flowing, even if it is reduced to a trickle. But what of the assurances of presence and attention on the receiving end of the radio wave? Bright fall days like the early days of spring breed thoughts of freedom from restraint. The physical stimulus may still be greater than the mental. There is no answering to a roll call, the truant officer has no check-up on attendance, parents are busy and if Johnny and his sister Mary do, for some reason, attend radio school, who knows whether they are truly listening in?

One is always apt to take his radio instruction with a certain degree of relaxation. It is not often that attention is closely concentrated on the voice of the air. We are apt to take it or leave it, as fancy dictates. Why expect children to do otherwise than to follow the example of their elders?

They say there is to be a check-up in the classroom, when schools open, on the mental profit derived by the school children during this period of radio instruction. We shall be interested in what it shows.

terms that the C. I. O. and Mr. Lewis regard impartiality from him as betrayal and will not stand it without protest.

THE REACTION of the President to these belligerent outbursts from Mr. Lewis has been strangely restrained. Upon neither occasion has he given a hint of the resentment he beyond question felt, which he had every right to feel, and which anyone in his place would have felt. On the contrary, he has taken the two lambastings with extraordinary meekness, avoiding comment, off or on the record, at his press conferences; maintaining an unbroken silence on the subject of the sit-down strike and greatly disappointing some of his friends, who, shocked at the truculent tone taken by a professional labor leader toward the President of the United States, were anxious to see the President squelch him.

SO FAR FROM attempting to squelch Mr. Lewis after his latest and roughest attack, the President waited a couple of weeks and then had him at the White House for a "long and pleasant" conference, which the White House unofficially intimated had been requested by Mr. Lewis. Mr. Lewis did not let that idea sink in for half a day. From "sources close to the C. I. O. leader" it was at once corrected and the statement made that Mr. Lewis had not requested the conference, that he had been asked to come to the White House by the President, that he had not even suggested a desire to go. And that seems to be the truth. The inviting was done by the President, which fact the White House later admitted. Other close friends of Mr. Lewis have said since that Mr. Lewis neither apologized, retracted nor explained his "supped at labor's table" speech, that the wages-and-hours control bill was discussed; that the successor to Mr. Edward F. McGrady, as Assistant Secretary of Labor was discussed; that everything was merry and bright, but nothing transpired to bring the two men any closer together personally.

AS A RESULT of the conference, Mr. Lewis' friends express the belief that though the subject was not mentioned, the President will not soon make any more "plague on both their houses" statements, but that if he does "John will let him have it again." In brief, they are quite convinced that John can't do anything else; that John has the upper hand. This is not a situation calculated to increase respect for the Presidency. The better grade friends of Mr. Roosevelt are mortified about it and few of his opponents can take much pleasure in it. It is one of the products of a political alliance not pleasant to contemplate.

HIGH SCHOOL ELEVEN'S OPEN GRID SEASON WITH THREE GAMES

Bristol Will Play at Langhorne
This Afternoon in First of Season

NEWTOWN vs. BENSALEM

Flemington, N. J., Will Oppose
Fallsington in Initial Contest Today

By Louis Tomlinson

It will take more than their share of breaks for Newtown high to take Coach George Reimer's Bensalem Owls into camp in their annual game at Newtown today. At least that is the general opinion now circulating here as the time of the game approaches in view of the very inexperienced Newtown team, added to a list of early season casualties which includes three of the varsity men in the Blue and White line-up.

Bensalem will center its attack around its ace and captain, Hal Robinson. All-County back last year, who will be at fullback again this year. Newtown, on the other hand, will depend largely upon their captain only Senior letterman returning this year, Gene Smith, who is also a fullback.

Coach Bill Dougherty, former Bristol high mentor, and present coach of Jenkintown high, will act in the capacity of referee for the tilt.

For the first time in many years Bristol high opens its football campaign with one of its oldest rivals, the Langhorne "Redskins." Last year, Langhorne and Bristol met in the third game of the season for both clubs but this year the schedule makers have shifted their positions a bit forward to the season's opener. This makes an extremely tough starter for both clubs, especially in view of past performances in which Langhorne has always shown Bristol plenty of fight and has given Bristol plenty to fight for.

Flemington, N. J., High School eleven will journey to Fallsington where it will encounter Coach Mike DeRisi's Orange and Black eleven in the opening game of the 1937 grid season for both schools.

Although DeRisi knows little about the visitor's squad this season, he nevertheless is predicting a win for his club over the New Jersey outfit whom they easily defeated last season, 20-0.

AUTOMATIC TRAP TO BE SECURED BY GUN CLUB

EDGELEY, Sept. 24—Edgeley Rod & Gun Club held its September meeting Monday night at Headley Manor fire house with Elwood Britton presiding.

The Federation committee reported it was impossible at this time of the year to have the season closed on quail as was asked by the club, and the Pa. Game Commission will probably consider it at the next meeting. It will also consider reducing the bear season to two days.

Most of the meeting was taken up by outing committees handing in reports, and the outing this year proved to be very successful from the financial angle.

The trap committee was given permission to try to obtain, if possible, a second-hand automatic trap for the club, and if this is impossible they will have to buy a new one. A discussion was also taken up about changing the present trap grounds to another place.

There were three new members accepted, making a total of 94.

BRISTOL LEAGUE BOWLERS TAKE ALL FOUR POINTS

In the Bristol Bowling League only two matches were rolled, O'Boyle's taking all four points from Burlington and Green Palace making a clean sweep from Moffo's.

Milt Jones was the high scorer for O'Boyle's with 568. R. Rodman had 513 for Burlington. For Green Palace Joe Amisson had 636, Joe Wilkinson 628, and for Moffo's Moffo himself was high, hitting 572.

nine power treaty and the League of Nations covenant.

Therefore, he said, it is up to all signatories of the treaty and covenant to support China's struggle.

By Robert G. Nixon

(Copyright 1937)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—(INS)—China has put it squarely up to the United States to invoke the nine-power pact against Japan for its undeclared war in the Far East. International News Service learned today on highest authority.

China's Ambassador, Dr. C. T. Wang, it was learned, has expressed to Secretary of State Hall the earnest desire of his government that the United States take this action at the earliest possible moment.

The Chinese government has informed Washington authorities it considers the United States has a "legal obligation" to use this instrumentality in an effort to halt the war in China.

The nine-power pact, signed at Washington, February 9, 1922, binds the signatories, including Japan, to respect the sovereignty, the independence, and the territorial and administrative integrity of China.

The pact was conceived by then Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, and fostered by the United States, which remains the repository for the document and the signed agreements of the signatory powers.

It is this pact, China insists, which makes it a legal, and not just a moral obligation, for the United States to act.

By James R. Young
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, Sept. 24—(INS)—Japan is expected to make a formal reply to the United States Government's sharp protest against the bombing of Nanking before the end of this week, a government spokesman declared today.

It was made clear, however, that the American protest, supported by similar representations from other world powers, will not cause Japan to alter her policy in China.

Officials here have expressed surprise at the "inadequate knowledge" of the situation which they claim the American protest displayed.

ALASKA COPPER BOOM

SEATTLE, Wash.—(INS)—Alaska is enjoying a boom in its copper industry, shipments to Seattle from the territory revealed. During July copper shipments totaled 11,954,199 pounds, valued at $1,737,856, compared to 2,547,699 pounds valued at $259,688 for the same month of 1936. Silver shipments also showed a spurt, increasing from $25,835 to $95,296, but gold declined from $2,129,629 to $2,034,414.

BEER TAX FOR SCHOOLS

HAVANA—(INS)—Bottled beer will bear the burden of a thousand new class rooms in schools throughout Cuba if the bill introduced into the house of representatives by M. P. Solorzano is approved. The measure calls for a tax of two cents on each to erect new schools and enlarge those bottles of domestic and imported beer now in use.

SCHICK SHAVER

How long will a Schick last?

A radio officer, on a ship continuously traveling between cold climates and the tropics, wrote to the Schick Company that he had shaved every day for three years with a Schick and never spent a penny for repairs or replacements.

Some of the first Schick Shavers, made five years ago, are still running perfectly.

This long service, with no cost for blades or sharpening of any part, makes the Schick the cheapest way to shave. Come in and try one yourself.
